

Dr. P. Sai-wing Ho

Dr. P. Sai-wing Ho is Associate Professor and Chair of the Department of Economics at the University of Denver. He completed his doctoral degree in Economics at Stanford University, focusing on economic development, international trade/investment, and alternative approaches to economic analysis. His recent research indeed aims to shed light on the globalization and development debate using alternative economic approaches, with attention to multilateral trade negotiations and agreements.

